Exchange & Broker's Office, Georgetown, District of Columbia.
ROMULUS RIGGS,
AT his office, next door below Craw-ford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U.
States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TRACE or TREACY —she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 5 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria, and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Robert Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs.
Negro Trace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a scorpion put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured in jail, or if out of the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. All persons are forewarned harboring or employing said Negro at their peril, as the law will be rigorously put in force against any offender.

Stop the Swindler.
FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.
I WILL give the above reward for apprehending and lodging in any jail in the District of Columbia, a person by the name of JOHN POST, a Bricklayer and Stonemason, who has been at work for about two months past at Fort Washington, and was discharged on the 7th of September inst.— He says he was born in the state of New-York; is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and has sandy hair; he had with him an apprentice boy, nearly grown. A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Colagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and the other he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, where he said he intended to work again; but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villainy.
Persons are cautioned against being imposed on by him. BOLITHA LAWS.

THE IRISH DUEL.

Tune—Mrs. Waddle was a widow.
Potatoes grow at Limerick and Beef at Ballynore,
And Buttermilk is beautiful; but that you knew before,
And Irishmen love pretty girls, but none could love more true Than little Paddy Whackmackrack lov'd Kate O'Donoghoo.
Now Katy was as a lass as ever tripp'd
The soil,
And Paddy bore with equal grace, a musket or a bod;
With trowel and with baganet by turns the hero chose,
To build up houses for his friends and boldly charge his foes.
When gentle people fall in love, love's never at a loss,
To find some ugly customers their happiness to cross
And Paddy found no little trouble from a rival swain,
Who kept the Cat and Cucumber in Cau-dlower Lane.
This youth was call'd Mackinkeraft, a very dapper elf, Whose clothes they fitted neatly, for he made 'em all himself; A tailor blade he was by trade, of natty boys the broth, Because according to his coat he always cut his cloth.
But Paddy knew the feelings of a gentleman it hurts,
To find another ungenteely sticking in his skirt,
So sent a challenge without fear; for though he was not rich, He call'd himself a gentleman and still behaved as such.
Mackinkeraft too good manners knew, for he,
as it appears,
To Paddy wrote for leave to come and cut off both his ears.
Says Pat to that in style polite, as well you may suppose,
"My ears are at your service, sir, but first I'll pull your nose."
The when and where was settled fair, when Pat, as bold as brass, Cried "You know what we fight about?"
Mackinkeraft cried "alas!"
And then in haste and not to waste such very precious time, One prim'd without a loading 'tother loaded without prime.
Then back to back they stood goodluck to measure yards a score, Mackinkeraft such honest measure never gave before,
He walked so light that out of sight full fairly he was seen, And Paddy shot a finger-post just half a mile between.
Now Pat and Kate soon after that in wedlock's bands were joined, Mackinkeraft kept walking on and never look'd behind,
And till this day, his ghost, they say, for he
of love expired, Keeps walking round the finger-post at which bold Paddy fir'd.

Political Miscellany.

FOR THE GAZETTE.
That man must know but little of the human heart, or possess a greater stock of charity than falls to the share of the majority of the world, who is surprised to see competitors for power or wealth envious, intolerant, and eager, by insidious or even base means, to build their success on the ruin of their rival's character. When the end which men have in view is of a selfish, sordid nature, we can be at no loss to account for the degradation which the mind insensibly undergoes in the pursuit of it.
The love of money grows with the acquisition of it, to the exclusion of every benign and honorable sentiment; for cupidity of every kind, like noxious weeds, overgrows and destroys all the adjacent virtues—and the man commonly called ambitious, still finds new desires, to his pursuit of which, new difficulties successively arise. The horizon which bounds his views, still lies before him as he proceeds; and, after a wearisome toil of years, he finds his object as far remote as ever from his grasp, while his appetite, instead of being appeased, has been sharpened, his temper, exasperated by disappointment, is a ceaseless pain to him, and at last his heart, hardened by malice, becomes inaccessible to all that renders man estimable in life—to feeling, to friendship, and even to common justice, and common charity.
There are two distinct passions, which, though they differ from each other very widely in their modus operandi, are generally confounded, and pass by the one common name of AMBITION. The one, which is a passion of high descent, elevates the mind to the contemplation of great and vir-tuous designs, and stimulates the heart to noble deeds, disdainful of selfish purposes, and to grand, exalted, and generous enterprize;—the other, a degenerate, spurious, crabbed stock, upon which avarice grafts all the mean, base, grovelling, sordid and corrupt propensities. The former looks more to the accomplishment of good to others than to its own immediate reward—or if self ever mingles with its motives, trusts to the world and to posterity to apportion its fame to its deservings: while the other sets out with assessing at the highest its own merits and reward, and endeavors by impudent impostures to cajole the world into an anticipated acknowledgment of them, and to procure credit, not for what it has done, or can do—but for what it may do should chance present an opportunity. In short, like too many of our modern commercial enterprizes, a man possessed with this kind of ambition, sets up altogether upon credit, with a conviction in his conscience that unless he can succeed in some bold, unprincipled speculation, he must become a bankrupt, and demands to be, all at once, thought great, in order that he may as soon as possible make those whom he has cajoled, feel it, in the ostentatious exercise of his power, the display of his inordinate pride and vanity, and, perhaps, the gratification of his worst appetites. Candour, sincerity and truth sway the one, and direct and control all his aspirings;—the other is the perpetually servile, sneaking, temporizing slave of expedient,—the indefatigable servitor of his own bad purposes, to the gratification of which he hesitates not to make every sacrifice but that of his own pleasure or property—has recourse to a thousand mean, unwarrantable tricks, undermining falsehoods, and empirical experiments, to mask his real character, because he knows it to be bad—and to throw a wrong coloring upon that of his neighbor, because, seeing it to be good, it is an offence in his eyes, and a reproach to his own fame by the contrast it presents to it: and thus he raises himself from the mire in which nature designed him to wal-low, upon the ruins, perhaps, of the most worthy of his fellow citizens' fame.

High in the catalogue of men distinguished for the first of these two kinds of ambition were the men who illustrated the character of America in that period of its history which filled the space from the year 1770 to the year 1790. If it be true, as some sarcastic observers assert, that we have, by degrees, declined into the second species, and that the vilest kind of ambition every day seems to acquire a stronger and more extensive dominion over certain persons in this country, it is surely a subject well worth investigation.—The great men whose names I have mentioned aspired to no glory but that which they might catch by reflection from the glory of their country, no profit from the dangers and labors they incurred in liberating their fellow citizens from a foreign yoke, but such as they were to share in common with them: and having effected that object and established their great acquisition upon the basis of peace, they nobly resigned all those distinctions and baubles of power, the least of which constitutes the depraved ambition of our aspirers of the present day: the tranquillity, the honor, and the happiness of America engrossed the whole of their ambition, and even these they would accomplish only by means strictly moral and justifiable.—Those of the present day direct their views to remote nations, who so far from having any such natural connection with us as would, in plain honesty and common sense, warrant our running material risks, and incurring great dangers and the very worst of evils in their behalf, do not so much as speak the same language or hold one common principle of faith with us.— For those aliens, our modern Gracchi would have us rush forth from this happy covering of peace and harmony with the world, under which we have for a short time enjoyed the blessing that God and nature have presented in full measure to our lips, and wander abroad over the wilds of military adventure—not like the good knight of La Mancha distracted in a virtuous cause, but like Hudibras "colonelling" in a dubious or a bad one, and adopting to our alliance and protection the bucaniers and pirates who infest the high seas, plundering those with whom we are in amity, and not sparing even our fellow citizens. This is the sort of ambition by which our present cravers of power are said to be actuated, and these are the means (the only means, 'tis true, within their competence) by which they hope to vault into the seat of government, in order to lord it over the United States.
Even though all this should not be true to the full extent in which it is given out all over the union, yet the universality of the suggestion is a proof that a depraved spirit of the kind does exist, and if not trowed down by the people, will every day gain strength.—Of such a change in the character and views of men pretending to influence in this republic, and grasping at popularity by plausible noise and hollow frontery, the causes ought to be investigated by every man of weight and integrity—since whatever they may be, it would be well to have them universally understood; particularly as we see the effects before us every day bursting forth to view—and must be the more sure that they deserve to be deplored, because we cannot by any so-phistry evade the conclusion, that as that virtuous ambition under the influence of which Washington, Franklin, Hancock, Adams, and their associates, raised this their country and themselves to the very highest step of glory to which any nation or set of men ever mounted, an ambition of so very opposite a nature as that now described, cannot fail, if it be nourished by gratification, to sink the republic with still greater rapidity than it rose. Z.

From the National Intelligencer.
A petition is in circulation for signatures, in Detroit, praying of Congress to authorise the election of a Delegate to represent the views and interests of the people in Michigan Territory, on the floor of Congress. Nothing can be more reasonable, surely, than this request, from a people isolated from the rest of the country by an interior sea, and a wide extent of wilderness; and we hope they will not be permitted to petition in vain.
The situation of the Territory of Michigan, unrepresented but through the casual kindness of the representative of some neighboring state, forcibly calls to mind the situation of the District in which we live. We do not know that the District of Columbia has much reason to complain of the coldness of the government towards it.
The successive Presidents have, on the contrary, deserved our gratitude for just sentiments towards us; and even the Congress have bestowed on us, perhaps, as much attention as could be spared from affairs of greater moment. But that which is of great moment to us, is of little importance in the eyes of Congress; and appears the more diminutive, from the magnitude of objects with which it comes in competition; as our goodly houses dwindle into insignificance beside the magnificence of the public buildings, which at length promise to be worthy of a great Republic.
There is a natural repugnance in man to the change of established political systems —there are even yet living persons who believe every thing has gone wrong, and that even mother earth has ceased to yield her wonted bounty of produce, since the prostration of the regal authority in these states, or provinces, as they like still to call them. There is the same sort of repugnance perceivable in this District, to entering on the consideration of our political condition, and the possibility of improving it. But, whether the people of the District of Columbia are forever to be debarred from the privileges of their fellow citizens; whether they alone are to be excepted from the right of representation common to all the other inhabitants of the Republic, is a question which must be before long decided. A population not much larger than that of this District, in each of the states of Louisiana and Illinois, is entitled to two senators and one representative in Congress; and in both states their Legislatures exercise the attributes of sovereignty.
This district containing thirty thousand souls, and which will in ten years comprise at least double the number, has no government but that of Congress—parental, we acknowledge, in its regards, but necessarily sparing in its benefactions. On this head let a single fact suffice to shew the defect in the constitution of the government of this District. That part of it on the Eastern side of the Potomac, was ceded by the state of Maryland, and that on the Western side by the state of Virginia, to the United States about twenty years ago.
It was then ordained that, until further legislation thereon, the laws of Maryland and Virginia should be respectively observed in the territories ceded by them. Thus the Potomac divides the District, narrow as its bounds, into two governments—under distinct laws, and totally distinct practices in the courts. Worse than this, we are now governed by the laws of Maryland and Virginia, as they existed twenty years ago, without the benefit of the amendments of their particular laws, or of the general progress of amelioration in the civil code, and humanization of the criminal law. If we had remained either a part of Maryland, or of Virginia, we should have had the benefits of the Penitentiary system, instead of being obliged to branding in the hands, and exposing the persons of criminals, even women, at the whipping post, or condemning them to inactive confinement in the pestilential cells of a loathsome dungeon, as the only alternative to absolute impunity.
When we wrote the first line of this article, little did we intend thus incidentally to open the question we have touched; and we will not pursue into its details the anomaly of our system of government, under the provision which gives to Congress exclusive jurisdiction over this territory.— That provision we have no desire to disturb; not considering it at all incompatible with two objects which appear to us so reasonable that we can see no possible objection to them—first, the establishment of a local legislature, with the authority to appoint all necessary officers, judges excepted—and 2dly the admission of a Delegate on the floor of Congress to represent the general interests of the District. "Exclusive legislation" will be exercised in establishing these organs. Such a system whilst it will restore our abrogated rights, will relieve Congress from annual importunities respecting our jurisprudence, our militia, our roads, bridges, taxes, &c. &c.

The right of the District to representation of some sort in the general government, has been already solemnly recognized by Congress, in passing an act during the late war, to lay a portion of the Direct Tax on the District—a liability to such a tax implying a right of representation.
The answer which has sometimes been thought conclusive to every proposition of this sort, that those who do not like the District government, are not obliged to live under it, is entitled to little respect. Many of the people of the District, original residents, became members of a separate community without their wishes having been consulted respecting it—others who have since moved here, have so far engrafted themselves into the soil, that eradication would be fatal to their temporal interests. Both classes may, nevertheless, very clearly see how their condition might be improved by lessening their sense of dependance.
On this subject, however, it is not to be expected that Congress will act, unless the people of the District first show their sense of its importance by preferring a petition to that effect; and whether our opinion be that of a majority of the people we are unable to say. We know it is that of a highly respectable portion of them, and should like to have the sense of the majority ascertained.
To the editor of the New-Orleans Chronicle.
PANZACOLA, Sept. 19.
SIR—We are waiting with anxiety for the United States to take formal possession of this place, and for the establishment of a regular system of government. Our government at present is a military one exclusively, and of course not very highly relished. Panzacola contains at this time about fifteen hundred buildings, one third of which are dwelling houses: it is probably in a more delightful situation than any town in the southern country, and decidedly more healthy. Many northern people have spent the season here thus far, without a single death, nor scarcely a case of sickness.
This place will and must be a place of safe and fashionable resort during the summer and sickly months. The harbor is exceeded by none in the world perhaps—two thousand ships may ride in perfect safety.
Fort Carlos de Barancas is six miles below the town, and commands the entrance into the harbor. The country in the neighborhood is very far from being fertile; but all this part of the country produces the grape in great luxuriance, and will one day be to the United States what Spain is to Europe.
Lands on the Escambia are good, as also on Yellow Water and the different bayous and creeks. The Indians are routed—scarcely one is seen throughout the country. Many of them have passed on to cross the Mississippi.
Business is at present very dull—flour is worth 11 to 12 dollars; bacon, 26 cents; corn, 9 dollars per barril; not rapid—good Irish linens in demand—specie is in great demand—bills on Georgia, the Carolinas, Alabama and Mississippi banks, 10 per cent. below par; New-Orleans, 5 per cent.
We feel very severely the want of a mail, in consequence of which we have to depend on the few vessels that trade between this and Havana and New-Orleans. But we shall soon be able to give you all the intelligence this part of the country contains, by the Panzacola Gazette, a paper which will come out in a short time, and which we expect will make some developments concerning the political history of the Floridas, probably of importance to the nation.
Capt. Byles has just arrived with his sixty rangers—having been out thirty days, during which time he has killed three Indians, and brought in about 20 prisoners.
Extract of a letter from Martinique, dated September 2, 1818.
"We have now in the prisons of St. Pierre a man of the name of Cesar Fournier, confined for piracy; and as the fate of the unfortunate victims of his rapacity no doubt interests many in the United States, I send you the following statement of facts:
"Cesar Fournier, a Frenchman, was owner and supercargo of a schooner under American colors, called the Louisiana, captain Adams, an American, all the crew American, and a citizen of New-Orleans was the supposed owner; they cleared from N.
Orleans, having taken on board several passengers, for the Brazil; arrived opposite the deserted islands of La Salud, not far from Cayenne, under pretence of gathering fruits, he put all his passengers ashore and deserted them in the most destitute situation, where they were doomed to the want of food and covering to a long agony and a certain death—the crew then divided amongst themselves their property.— After having cruised a short time before Cayenne, in expectation of taking a vessel which was to sail from that port for France, being short of water he made sail for St.
Pierre, to procure the necessary supplies and several articles found wanting to fit out his vessel for a cruise as a pirate. At St.
Pierre the conduct of the crew created suspicious, the vessel was thoroughly searched, and besides other articles, several boxes of fire arms which had been declared at the custom house, were found and consequently the vessel seized. Some words which escaped from some of the crew created suspicions of a more serious nature, and Capt. Adams, Fournier and the crew were put in jail—Fournier and Adams however finding securities, were permitted to go a-large in St. Pierre.

"In the next time arrived his majesty's schr. La Saterelle, sent by Lieut. Gen.
Cass St. Cyr, from Cayenne, having on board the nine passengers (amongst whom was a lady) who had been left by Fournier and Adams on the Island of La Salud, and had been providentially rescued from a horrid and lingering death by a coaster going to Cayenne. All the suspicions entertained on the subject of the Louisiana were now confirmed, and Governor Donzelot gave immediate orders to confine in jail Cesar Fournier and Capt. Adams.
"The court before which this affair was carried, concluded that on account of the flag they could try these monsters only as to the infraction of the revenue laws, and the captain and supercargo were both condemned to infamy (au blame,) to pay ten thousand francs each, and to remain in jail until full payment of the fine.
"Testimonies given before the court show that the life of Fournier has been a continued succession of the most atrocious crimes. I would appear that at Trieste he murdered the captain of an English or American vessel; that having afterwards the command of a South American privateer, he took on the coast of Guinea a Spanish schooner and inhumanly butchered the whole crew and went ashore to burn the bodies;—that in company with an Italian of the name of Aquilante, they killed two men in Baltimore a year or two ago, made their escape to Philadelphia, where for a another murder they were put in jail—however, Fournier found means to get out and went to New-Orleans, where he fitted out this schooner Louisiana to continue his depredations with impunity under the Patriot flag.
"This man will be sent to France to be there tried for piracy by competent authority, and it is to be hoped will receive the punishment he and all such villains so well deserve.
"I send you this, because I think that such acts of wanton cruelty, and they now occur every day) ought to be made public, so as to open if possible the eyes of the civilized world on the inhumanity of giving in any way countenance to a set of unfeeling wretches, who under the cloak of patriotism enrich themselves by murders and piracies." Federal Republican.

COMMODORE PERRY & CAPT. HEATH.
The unfortunate dispute between these two gentlemen has been the subject of various comments, and has excited considerable interest throughout the union. Commodore Perry conceiving that an atonement was necessary for having, in a moment of forgetfulness, raised his hand to an officer holding a commission under the government, afforded Capt. Heath the satisfaction he required.
The meeting took place yesterday, on the Jersey shore, when Commodore Perry received the fire of Captain Heath, without injury—reserving his fire, and refusing, at the same time, to exercise said right; and Captain Heath, satisfied at this gallant and magnanimous atonement, the parties separated—and thus honourably terminated this unpleasant difference, which, we trust, will never be buried in oblivion.
We have received several documents relative to this transaction, from which it appears Com. Perry has conducted himself in the most honourable manner in this affair, and justified the favourable opinion entertained of his gallantry and good conduct.

yesterday, that a few days before she sailed, several Patriot vessels made an attack on and bombarded the town of Lagura, during the whole night—but were repulsed with considerable loss.

Valuable Land for Sale.
HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 5th day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres: each lot has seventy acres in wood, of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain. It is as fertile as any land in the county, and as susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.
The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock on the premises.
EDGAR McCARTY.
Fairfax co. Va. October 6

Georgetown for Sale.
THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria.
It is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Potomac creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania. I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity.
A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain being brought on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit.
More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might), have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and house hold furniture can be had.
The terms of sale will be as follows:— Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, will be taken in payment. Letters must be addressed to me at Potomac Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.
THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county, Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate, and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.— The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutritious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable.
The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—It would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of sale or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HER-

For Sale.
A valuable Farm in Jefferson County.
BY virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Chancery for the Frederickburg District in Virginia, in a suit wherein the Executors of Gen. George Washington were complainants; and Gerard Alexander, Thomas L. Alexander, (by Ludwell Lee, his appointed guardian) Ludwell Lee, R.D.
H. L. Washington, John A. Washington, vember next, all that tract of land lying in Jefferson County, Virginia, on Bullskin, commonly called Rockhall, containing 540 acres, now in the occupation of John Saunders.

The above tract of land lies about sixteen miles from Winchester, and about six from Charlestown, on the main road leading from Winchester to Baltimore, the city of Washington and Alexandria. It is well adapted to plaster and clover, and is in quality little inferior, if at all, to any farm in that fertile valley. The improvements on it are a large two story frame dwelling house, a barn and other necessary out houses.—The water is limestone and of excellent quality.
The terms of sale will be one-third of the purchase money, and the balance to be paid with interest, in one, two and three annual Auction & Commission Store.

NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st., where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

Gone to the Southward or Westward.
A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large man of the name of Bassett. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

Proposals.
By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker,
TO PUBLISH
A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address.
To the People of the United States.
THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valour in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooded Victory till he won her: who covetted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:— the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.
The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.
As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments:—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and a propriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr.
Amies. The ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.
The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns.
They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next.
That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness!" it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.
